

Hope It's Not Urgent

Pretend you're driving cross-country in your faithful '79 El Camino. As you zoom down a lonely stretch of desert road you see this sign...174 Km to the nearest phone...yikes! Fear strikes as you suddenly realize that you don't have any emergency supplies like water, road flares, a cell phone ... extra gas.

We're all driving more for long trips these days. Don't get stuck miles from the nearest phone. Use Operational Risk Management as you plan your trip to identify potential hazards and prepare for possible problems with your road trip.